

Institute for Electric Innovation's Powering the People

Lisa Wood is executive director of the Institute for Electric Innovation. Plus, she's VP – customer solutions at the EEI. On March 7th, the IEI brought together thought leaders at the beautiful News-eum in Washington, D.C. to discuss energy solutions for customers, both large and small. Panelists included a range of utility, regulatory, customer, vendor and environmental leaders.

From left to right: Letha Tawney, World Resources Institute; Steve Chriss, Walmart; Robert Blue, Dominion Energy; Commissioner Nick Wagner, Iowa Utilities Board

One panel, “Making It Work: Growing the Electric Vehicle Market,” was moderated by Hawaiian Electric’s CEO, Alan Oshima. Another panel, “Getting to YES with Large Customers to Meet Sustainability Goals,” was moderated by the World Resources Institute’s director – utility innovation, Letha Tawney.

IEI's Lisa Wood and Congresswoman Yvette Clarke, Democrat – New York, discuss the potential for smart cities, and the inaugural Smart Cities Caucus to be held on Capitol Hill a few days hence, on March 13th.

From left to right: Alan Oshima, Hawaiian Electric; Dan Adler, Energy Foundation; Scott Fisher, Greenlots; Mark Lantrip, Southern Company Services; Commissioner Norman Saari, Michigan Public Service Commission